

FOR PRESIDENT.
BENJAMIN HARRISON OF INDIANA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
LEVI P. MORTON
OF NEW YORK.

A TELLING ADMISSION.

The Bangor Commercial, a Democratic paper, publishes the following:

An important contribution to the literature of the campaign was made Friday through the Republican National Committee. It is not only interesting as showing the present condition of the Democratic canvass in the Western States, but it also explains the sudden change of front made by the Administration managers in attempting to sink the tariff question out of sight instead of making it the great feature of the fight as originally intended.

Shortly after his election to the Chairmanship of the Democratic National Executive Committee, Mr. Brice determined to find out for himself the exact state of public feeling on the tariff question among the people of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. With this end in view he sent James Dodge, of Brooklyn, a man who had been highly recommended to him for such work, out West to examine the situation. Mr. Dodge was directed to go into the Western States and ascertain the drift of political sentiment, and to deliver free-trade addresses in working communities, and to talk when he had an opportunity, with employees, and also to consult the leading Democrats with reference to the campaign. The chief object Mr. Brice had in mind, was to have his agent ascertain whether it would be safe to conduct the campaign on the lines laid down by the President's message, or whether it would be necessary to hedge on the tariff.

Upon his return, Mr. Dodge reported thus:

"In the five weeks that I have been away I have traveled through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, and I am very sorry that I shall have to make a rather discouraging report to the Committee, if they want to know the facts. Ohio will surely go Republican. Indiana, I think, will give Harrison a reasonable majority; why, the people there are enthusiastic over him, and there is a general cry for Harrison's election. I do believe that there are places in Indiana where it would be dangerous to mention Cleveland's name, but of course there is much enthusiasm for him in the large cities. It will be a close thing in Indiana, but I think they are getting the best of us. Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan are I am afraid, pretty certain to go for Harrison. When I was in Illinois I canvassed a train, and the result was 130 votes for Harrison and nineteen for Cleveland. I have been through mills and factories and other places, where I learned that men who were for Cleveland four years ago were now for Harrison, and their attachment for him seems to be pretty strong."

Being asked his cause of this stamped Mr. Dodge said: "The workmen have got protection on the brain, and seem to be thoroughly convinced that if the Democratic party wins this election the Mills bill will become a law and the flourishing industries upon which they rely for bread will be stricken down. The working people of the country are thoroughly up in arms. It does not take a very wise man to find that out. I would wager if any one took the trip I did, and if he told the truth, he would tell you substantially the same story."
